TABLE OF CONTENTS

PREFACE vii

INTRODUCTION: “Suarez on Metaphysical Inquiry, Efficient Causality, and Divine Action” xi

1 The Disputationes Metaphysicae xiii
2 Ontological Preliminaries xxix
3 Efficient Causality xliii
4 Aristotelian and Empiricist Accounts of Causality lix
5 Disputation 20: Creation lxxiii
6 Disputation 21: Conservation lxxxviii
7 Disputation 22: God’s General Concurrence xcv
8 Conclusion cxxi
Appendix: An Outline of the Disputationes Metaphysicae cxxi

METAPHYSICAL DISPUTATIONS 20, 21, AND 22

DISPUTATION 20: ON THE FIRST EFFICIENT CAUSE AND ON HIS FIRST ACTION, WHICH IS CREATION 1

Section 1: whether it can be known by natural reason that the creation of any being is possible or even necessary; or (what amounts to the same thing) whether a being insofar as it is a being can depend essentially on another being as on an efficient cause 2

Section 2: whether an infinite power of acting is required in order to create and, thus, whether such a power is proper to god to such an extent that it cannot be communicated to a creature 25

Section 3: whether there can be an instrument of creation 55

Section 4: whether creation is something within the creature that is distinct in reality from the creature itself 65

Section 5: whether a newness of being belongs to the nature of creation 93
DISPUTATION 21: ON THE FIRST EFFICIENT CAUSE AND ON HIS SECOND ACTION, WHICH IS CONSERVATION

Section 1: whether it can be known by natural reason that created beings always depend for their esse on the actual influence of the first cause

Section 2: which action conservation is, and how it differs from creation

Section 3: whether things depend for their conservation on God alone

DISPUTATION 22: ON THE FIRST CAUSE, AND ON HIS THIRD ACTION, WHICH IS COOPERATION, OR CONCURRENCE, WITH SECONDARY CAUSES

Section 1: whether it can be sufficiently proved by natural reason that god operates immediately and per se in the actions of all creatures

Section 2: whether god’s concurrence with a secondary cause is something in the manner of a principle or something in the manner of an action

Section 3: how god’s concurrence is related to the secondary cause’s action and to the action’s subject

Section 4: how god gives his concurrence to secondary causes

Section 5: whether secondary causes depend essentially in their acting on the first cause alone or on other causes as well

INDEX OF AUTHORS

INDEX OF SUBJECTS